

Halas House, who have an allotment for people with learning difficulties on our site, bought me this as a xmas box! Tunnel cleaner

All you do is put a coating all over with a soft broom, no scrubbing

All done, this is then left for the rains to wash it off

This was taken today, 3 weeks since putting it on

The grime comes off with a wipe of a finger, so I shall be taking my soft broom down again, a bit of elbow grease will get rid of

Need to replace my flags, the winds have been a pain in the harris, at least we haven't got the floods, feel sorry for those that have (get dredging again government!) Saw on the news last week the Black bull inn, Rimington, Lancashire had been flooded, recognised it straight away - I did a talk for the local DA and stayed there

Sorted out my new calendar for this year, filled in with gardening gumph first! So far 33 talks, judging 3 shows, 23 committee meetings and 15 general meetings - good job I have an understanding Mrs

First day of the year opening up our gardening club trading sheds

These sheds are on Abbey road allotment site

You should know by now I like me grub! Rice pud ready Leftover turkey...curry, I like to use a curry paste!

Although the weather was naff and only had 2 visitors, I am always doing something, had 500 x 2ft green stick canes delivered so was counting them out ready to flog

Give it more flavour with a dollop of homemade jam; raspberry and blackcurrant

Leftover beef...put through the mincer, no fat. 1/2 of it went in here...superb

Had a solar powered watering system last year from BBC Gardener's World Live, time to set up

Because I'm using their hose, the only way I can surround the plants is to lay it like this. Will finish off setting it all up next week and try it out, when sorted it will then go underneath the weed suppressant

Have a good growing year followers!
