

Down Alexandra Palace this weekend at The Edible Garden Show - 3 of us helping a mate (Gareth Hopcroft) out on his stand (Ecothrive) - looking forward to it - if you're going, come and say hello - we're on stand 275

This is why I cover my rhubarb with hoss muck over winter - my mates rhubarb behind on the next plot is just showing!

I don't want my bins getting too hot so the carpet is coming off, a slight frost won't do any harm.

When the summer arrives I will cover the bins again in white plastic

Was down Hampshire DA of the NVS Seminar on Saturday, Sherie Plumb gave an excellent talk on growing exhibition potatoes then I did my bit on composting - enjoyed it meeting people and making new friends - I shall be seeing them again!

This chap, Gary, cycled for over an hour to get to my talk - shirt and tie an' all!

I had another 70 scaffolding boards delivered on site - as new! Best boards we've had yet

New tunnel structure made up the back garden

Warm sunny windless day, cover on...empty pot leek pots buried this afternoon in the tunnel ready for planting out next month. The beds were then watered and covered

Doing a talk on Wednesday (yesterday) in Anslow, Burton on Trent.

I've got 8 talks this month, 4 meetings and The Edible Garden Show. Next month it's 9 talks with 3 meetings. Was asked this afternoon by (Malvern Show Manager) to talk at the Spring Show...so shall be representing the NVS

New influx of kids on the schools gardening club!
Laying the law down...still fighting the government over gardening on the school national curriculum.
I've given up with the council so went straight to government - I won't give up on them though!!
